

WICKEDLY GOOD

Just because you want to celebrate Halloween doesn't mean you have to give into the mass-marketing craze for junky sweets and nonrecyclable decorations. 1 Set a spooky mood with hand-painted, PVC-free bats whose sales support Bat Conservation International. Mother and pup bat set, $9; batcatalog.com

2 Boost bone health this skeleton season by sharing calcium-fortified chocolates with adults. $15/60 chocolates; adoracalcium.com

3 Give kids a gooey, chewy thrill with organic gummy bears (and feet!) that are vegan and gluten-free. $3/3.5 oz.; edwardandsons.com

4 When it comes to a place to stash all that good-for-you loot, a soft felt bag beats plastic pumpkins every time. $9; plumparty.com

ENDLESS ILLUMINATIONS

5 Ever wish your jack o' lantern lasted more than a day or two? Check out carvable foam Funkins that look just like the real thing—and won't rot on your stoop. $30; funkins.com 6 Forget fire hazards or fizzling candles. These flameless alternatives use LED technology to provide realistic and windproof light that keeps flickering long after the last trick-or-treater has gone. Smart Candles, $7.50–$12.50; smartcandle.com
